COB Student Snags Caribbean Essay Contest
In a highly recognized first for a Bahamian student, Christopher Worrell, an 18-year-old Economics major at COB, won the highly competitive Michael Manley Essay Competition. His winning entry was a thought provoking discussion of a statement made by Manley in his first book, The Politics of Change: “Self-reliance, equality and democracy are the objectives towards which we must strive. Without these we cannot build a just society.”Christopher, homeschooled by his parents, was awarded the first prize – a cheque for US $1,000 – at a special event on Wednesday, June 23rd in the auditorium of the Jamaica Confederation of Trade Unions in Kingston. Congratulations on a job well done.
