New Volume of Research Journal

Volume 18 of The College’s International Journal of Bahamian Studies (IJBS) has been released. Volume 18 comprises 4 original articles, a short communication, a book review and a listing of doctoral dissertations produced between 2008 and 2012 by COB faculty. Original articles come from the social sciences, history, education, and law. In all cases, the papers had been presented at conferences before being peer reviewed and accepted for publication. The full research studies can be accessed online at:
http://journals.sfu.ca/cob/index.php/files

Name The Institute

The College community is invited to recommend a Bahamian name for the proposed Institute of Oral History. The hope is to give the Institute a main name followed by the subtitle “Oral History Institute of The College of The Bahamas”. The main name should feature Bahamian vernacular speech; be distinctively Bahamian; point the audience towards the past and not already be in widespread use.

Kindly make a suggestion or endorse suggestions already made which follow:

- Dis We T’ings
- Back in the Day
- From Dat Time
- Juju (or names of other fruit or trees, e.g. Jumbey, Sapodilla, Gamalame, Woman tongue, Mamee)

The deadline is Thursday evening 22nd November, 2012 and submissions should be forwarded to ttremaine@cob.edu.bs.
