Police Commissioner Visits Bioethics 475 Class

Maintaining law and order is not a job that the Royal Bahamas Police Force can do completely on its own, so when Commissioner of Police Mr. Ellison Greenslade was invited to speak to the Bioethics 475 class at The College of The Bahamas on Wednesday, June 19th, he also implored the students to help the police. Mr. Greenslade was invited by one of the student groups in the Bioethics class which focuses on the ethical and philosophical implications of technology and biological and medical procedures. The group’s presentation examined “Gun Violence and Its Effect Through Media” and proposed recommendations on how to promote cohesiveness and cooperation between the public and law enforcement agencies.

Four COB Student-Athletes Compete in Grand Bahama

Over the weekend, four student-athletes and one alumna competed in Grand Bahama for the BAAA’s Open Nationals in discuss and shot put; Kyle Higgs, Ashley Oembler, Gerrard Burrows and Julianna Duncanson (now alumna). Congrats to the team. The results will follow.
