Writers Of Light

“No Country Should Outsource the Higher Education of Its Citizens.”

Writers of Light, the yearly photojournalism exhibit hosted by JRN 201 students was held at Chapter One Bookstore on Thursday, November 24th, under the theme, “My Lens. Our Story.” Students, staff, faculty and invited guests perused the exhibit gallery that captured pertinent social issues relating to poverty and children; as well as sports, tourism, and religion.

Professor, Hugo Zarate, reflected on the 10 weeks of intense teaching instruction required to teach the students the basics of photography and the importance of capturing images the world needs to see. “Last four weeks we chose five pictures out of 100. We edited these pictures but you have to be as close to reality,” he explained. “We have a photo documentary of the issues we have in Nassau, emotional issues, and poverty issues.”
